expiration of the three months which must elapse between the rendering of a decision of annulment and its final condecision of annulm firmation. On that day the girl's father, the papal Marquis Martin Maloney, will ask for the final confirmation of the an-

with young Arthur Herbert Osborne, at Mamaroneck. It has always been denied that she even went through any form of ceremony with the young Englishman, Samuel B. Clarkson, with whom she later ran away to Montreal, so the court's decree will leave her free to wed Clarkson whenever she wishes.

"There had been some sort of ceremony between Miss Maloney and Arthur H. Oswas therefore no marriage, and had never for a single moment been considered a marriage either by Miss Maloney or Mr. among both classes of people.'

"There was no need for her to wait for the confirmation of the court's decree. Had it been an annulment in the ordinary sense, delay for the confirmation would have been necessary. But Miss Maloney might have married the day after the court sat, had she so pleased, or at any time before, for that matter. The court held that she had always been free to marry Clarkson.

"There has been no trouble with the church which could cause delay. It is not true that the pope refused to grant a dispensation. There has never been any petition to the pope. There has never, in the opinion of the family, been anything to petition the pope to dispense. "The petition for the annulment of the alleged marriage was brought only because of the notoriety the elopement brought to the family. It was merely to satisfy the public by means of the highest legal authority that there had never been any marriage. The family had no need of such declaration, except to put an end definitely to the statements that had been made that a marriage had taken place.

President Roosevelt has asked five extry life and conduct an investigation aimed at bringing about substantial betterment of the social, sanitary and economic conditions on American farms. He has asked that this commission seek a solution of the problem as to how farm life can be made less solitary, more replete with opportunity, freer from drudgery, more comfortable and more attractive.

Miss Maloney will then be clear of the "mock marriage" which she went through with young Arthur Herbert Osborne, at World's Work. In a letter to Prof. Bailey, asking that he accept the chairmanship of the com-mission, the President has thus outlined the scope of his desire: The President's Letter.

"My Dear Prof. Bailey: "No nation has ever achieved permanent greatness unless this greatness was This ceremony will not be long delayed, based on the well being of the great rest of the nation ultimately rests. "From the first," Mr. Fanning continued, "the family had always contended that there had been no marriage with Osborne. The courts proved they were right in that contention.

"The application to the courts for its annulment was in no way an admission that there had been a marriage. That there had been a marriage. That ing more than 30,000 farmers in better sense, this was not an annulment; because there was nothing to annul. Better Living on Farms.

"I doubt if any other nation can bear of attention given by the government, both federal and state, to agricultural increasing the production of crops. Our attention has been concentrated almost exclusively on getting better farming. In the beginning this was unquestionably the right thing to do. The farmer must first of all grow good crops in order to support himself and family. But when this has been secured the effort for better farming should cease to stand alone, and should be accompanied by the effort for better business and better living on the farm. It is at least as important that the farmer should get the largest possible return in money, comfort and social advantages from the crops he grows as that he should get the largest possible return in crops from the land he farms. Agriculture is not the whole of country life. The great rural interests are human interests, and good crops are of little value to the farmer unless they open the door to a good kind of life on the farm. "It is especially important that what-

THOUSAND-FOOT SHIPS. Pier Superintendents Say New York Could Not Handle Them.

NEW YORK, August 10.-Pier superinendents and other shipping experts who have the job of getting the big liners alongside their piers on their arrival ridiculed the report from London, Saturday, to the fact that the White Star Company intended to build two liners, the Olympic and Laurentic, over 1,000 feet long. The general opinion was that the limit had been reached by the Mauretania, which is 790 feet, on account of the limit to the pies accommodations and the difficulty of docking big ships in bad weather against harbor at the present time is the North German Lloyd at Hoboken, which is 900 feet long.

Capt. D. J. Roberts, the pier superintendent of the Cunard line, said that the War Department would not allow any pier in New York to be built longer than 825 feet, and that was the reason the new Cunard piers were not built longer than they are. With a strong tide against her it took twelve to fourteen tugs to berth a big ship alongside the pier. Capt. Rob-erts did not believe that the White Star line intended to build any such liners as the Lusitania and Mauretania were built, on the lines of the Carmania and Caronia, which had both proved such all-around
